BOOM IN IRON AND STEEL IS AIDING LOCAL METAL DEALERS

Chinese Buyers And Sellers Are Less Panicky

JAPANESE ACTIVE

Buying Supplies Here For Shipment To Japan

BY DAVID ARAKIE

The boom in steel and iron, that has been such a pronounced feature of both the London and New York markets for the past few weeks, has lost nothing of its force since we last commented upon the occurrence of prices taking a big flight. Prices in some lines have gone further than were recorded some ten days ago, and there is an undertone in the general market which gives many to think that values will appreciate further.

The Chinese metals dealer, who was inclined to be panicky a couple of weeks ago, is now less agitated, preferring to sit on the fence for a little while to see how things develop in the near future. Consequently, the volume of business during the past week was on a much smaller scale than before. Of course, what is killing the innate desire of the Chinese to speculate in iron and steel products is the fact that manufacturers cannot guarantee delivery until some six to eight months hence, and there is little fun in booking orders for goods which will reach Shanghai nine months from now. That to a great extent explains why the dealers are holding their horns and lying low.

Shanghai prices are still much below replacing costs, but supplies in most sections are very small.

The Japanese have been keen on picking up whatever supplies they could lay hands on in the local market, but very little has been coming out. In Japan, it might be added, supplies of imported steel materials have been diminishing rapidly, and the market there is suffering from a shortage, stocks of tinplates and thin sheet plates being particularly exhausted.

JAPANESE ACTIVE

It is for this reason that Japanese agents have been fairly busy these last few days in Shanghai in securing the market for any available supplies of iron and steel materials. The temporary ruin of the iron industry in Western Germany has been the means of giving a lease of life to the Japanese iron industries, and some foundries in Japan have commenced to resume smelting.

Japanese merchant inquiry is large and buying in the American market is keeping pace with it. Many are inclined to believe that part of the Japanese activity is of a speculative nature, but the rapid rise in the American and British markets is expected to discourage any serious attempts at speculation.

There has been a good speculative demand in the Shanghai market during the week for Hongkong tin, business being done at the improved price of Tls. 82 ex-godown per picul. Sellers are now asking Tls. 83.

LEAD WEAK

Some 300 tons of Burma lead was also done this week at Tls. 12 per picul ex-godown Shanghai. Local stocks do not amount to more than 700 tons. The market is rather weak, the London quotation being £30.10 per ton c.i.f. Shanghai.

Buyers are holding off in wire nails, the rate being Tls. 9.50 per cask. Stocks in Shanghai are light.

Japanese exporters of brass are reported to be making a great effort to get a footing in the Indian market. India has been sending orders recently to that country in consequence of the shortage of supplies from Great Britain. Japanese prices are still too high to enable the exporters there to compete profitably, but it is stated that some dealers in Japan have arranged business at a loss simply to get a footing in this market.

It is difficult to describe the steel situation without picturing

AMERICAN SILK MISSION ARRIVES HERE

Visit Shanghai International Silk Testing House This Morning

The second American Silk Mission to the Orient arrived in Shanghai yesterday afternoon on the President Cleveland. The party comprises Mr. James A. Goldsmith, Chairman of the Silk Association of America, and Mrs. Goldsmith; Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Atwood; Mr. Edwin F. Bayer, Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Bradley; Mr. and Mrs. Austin Cheney, Mr. Ward Cheney; Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Douty; Mrs. Myron S. Falk; and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schoen.

The mission remain here until Friday, when they leave for Hongkong by the President Cleveland returning here on March 26. Their Shanghai stay on the return trip will be limited to four days, after which they will tour North China. At the present time the mission men are not taking up their task seriously, the only important part of their program being a visit to the Shanghai International Silk Testing House this morning, after which they will be busy sight-seeing.

FULL PROGRAM

On their return trip they will attend quite a number of social engagements and dinners, also meet the members of the American Chamber of Commerce and hold a conference with representatives of the silk guilds.

With its program of conferences, inspection of filatures and sericultural institutions and its meeting with guilds and associations the second silk mission to the Orient should add a very substantial contribution to the international co-operation which is surely developing in the raw silk commerce between the United States and the Orient.

Every member of the Silk Association of America is interested in this mission, for there never was a time in which the American industry was more in need of an increased supply of raw silk of better quality at a lower cost. The object of the mission is to get the Chinese sericulturists to increase their quantity of raw silk, and at the same time improve the quality.

As these visits are being made frequently there will be gradually built up in the United States and in China and Japan a group of men familiar with each other's needs.

AMERICAN HELP

The American Silk Association are trying to do everything to encourage sericulture in China, and recently donated G. $21,000 for the erection of a modern sericultural building, as part of the University of Nanking This is now under construction and, when completed, will be one of the finest buildings of its kind erected in China.

Three years ago the Silk Association of America gave $14,000 to the Canton Christian College for the erection of a sericultural building, which has been in use for the past two years, and been doing very good work.

The Silk Association of America has worked in close co-operation with all silk societies in China that aim at improving the growing of better silk in the country.

It has been estimated that if the Chinese eliminated all disease in their silk worn eggs the entire production of coccons in China would be doubled without new extra planting of mulberry trees or any extra men being engaged in the work. In North China the disease carries away

Chinese Students In U. S. Have Right To Earn Way By Work, Daugherty Rules

Decision Of Great Interest To Youths Seeking Education In America Is Handed Down By Attorney-General At Washington

A definite ruling confirming the rights of Chinese students in America to engage in labor for their maintenance or to aid their studies had been handed down by United States Attorney General Harry Daugherty and a copy of the ruling has just come to hand.

The ruling was made in response to a request, made through the Secretary of Labor by Mr. Joseph Gaillie, formerly of Nanking, who is now in the United States assisting in the placing of Chinese students in industrial plants and endeavoring to interest industrialists in the development of China's resources.

His seeking of the opinion of the Attorney General evidently was occasioned by misunderstandings as to the legality of placing Chinese students in industrial concerns and the ruling clearly sets forth that where the labor performed by the Chinese entering the States as a student is only in connection with or in the furtherance of the maintenance of the status of student there is no law for the exclusion or deportation of such person. The Attorney General's opinion in full follows:

Sir: I have the honor to respond to your request of August 30 for an expression of my opinion upon the following question:

"Does the law permit of the legal entry into the United States of a student who in connection with his education performs manual labor either for profit or otherwise?"

The right of Chinese students to enter the United States is conferred by Article II of the Treaty of October 5, 1881, 82 Stat. 826, 827, which reads as follows:

"Chinese subjects, whether proceeding to the United States as teachers, students, merchants or from curiosity, together with their body and household servants, and Chinese laborers who are now in the United States, shall be allowed to go and come of their own free will and accord, and shall be accorded all the rights and privileges, immunities and exemptions which are accorded to the citizens and subjects of the most favored nation."

By section 6 of the Chinese Exclusion Act of May 6, 1822, 22 Stat. 60 as amended by the act of July 5, 1884, 23 Stat. 116, Congress has provided certain safeguards to prevent the entry of what might be termed imposters. So far as pertinent that section reads as follows:

"That in order to the faithful execution of the provisions of this Act, every Chinese person other than a laborer, who may be entitled by said treaty or this act, to come within the United States, and who shall be about to come to the United States, shall obtain the permission of and be identified as so entitled by the Chinese Government, or of such other foreign Government of which at the time such Chinese person shall be a subject, in each case to be evidenced by a certificate issued by such Government."

The Chinese Exclusion laws in other sections, make provision for deportation of those who enter or are found here unlawfully.

Numerous cases have come before the Courts involving the attempt to deport Chinese who claimed the right to remain because they entered as exempts pursuant to so-called section 6 certificates; and the rule to be applied in such cases in thus stated by the circuit Court of Appeal for the Seventh Circuit in May Kong Chiu v. United States 246, Fed 94, 97:

"Appellant's certificate being in conformity with the Statute was presumptively valid, and constituted prima facie evidence of his right to be here. Whether, therefore, it should be annulled and he be deported, depends upon whether the evidence warrants the finding that he obtained his certificate by fraud or deception, intending to evade the exclusion laws and becomes a laborer.

"Evidence that a person, admitted upon a certificate issued under said section 6, immediately after his arrival engages in and continues in employment as a laborer, justifies the conclusion that the certificate, though correct in form and substance, was obtained by fraudulent representation. United States v. Yang Yew (D. C.) 83 Fed. 832; United States v. Ng Park Tan (D. C.) 86 Fed. 605; United States v Foo Duck 172 Fed. 856,97 C. C. A. 204; Chain Chio Fong v United States 133 Fed. 154 66, C. C. A. 220; Choung Him Nin v United States 133 Fed. 391 66, C. C. A. 433; Ong Seen v Eurnett 233 Fed. 850, 147 C. C. A. 4; Lo Pong v Dunn 235 Fed. 516,149 C. C. A. 56; Lin Nip Chin v Plummer 238 Fed. 763,151 C. C. A. 613."

Concretely stated the good faith of the entry is to be determined by the subsequent conduct of the Chinese person. Thus if a Chinese person enters as a merch-

Eloquent testimony to the standing and popularity of the firm of Brunner, Mond and Co., famous chemists, was paid at the official opening of the fine new building on Szechuen Road yesterday, when Chinese and foreign friends filled the big structure, passing admiring comment upon the excellence of its construction and equipment.

Visitors, including many of official rank, were received by Mr. Percy Fowler, local manager of the firm, Mr. H. Y. Irwine, director, and members of the staff. The large reception room was profusely decorated with presentation scrolls, silver shields and the like from Chinese patrons, all testifying to the esteem in which the company is held.

Last night a dinner was tendered by Messrs. Brunner, Mond and Co., to some 500 Chinese guests at the Y. P. S. Hotel, the elaborate affair constituting a fitting climax to the "opening" day.

Mr. Fowler expects to go on long leave about the end of this month and Mr. H. G. Allen is expected to arrive here shortly from England. Mr. Fowler may be away for two years.

BYRL WALKELEY OPERA STAR, SINGS ON RADIO TONIGHT

Soprano From Gilbert And Sullivan Singers Very Good

Miss Byrl Walkeley, one of the two leading sopranos with the Gilbert and Sullivan Light Opera Company appearing at the Lyceum Theater every night, will sing for the radio fans of Shanghai tonight from The China Press-Radio Corporation of China broadcasting station on the roof of the Dollar building.

Miss Walkeley has proven a distinct success in all her parts in Shanghai, being particularly well liked in 'The Yoeman of the Guard,' and in the leading role of 'Iolanthe' last night, in which she was, to quote the indominable Domino, "delightful."

Miss Walkeley tonight will sing several of her most popular songs. In addition to her songs tonight's program, which commences at 8 o'clock, contains selections by the famous Chinese orchestra from the New World, the big Chinese amusement center, several singsong girls singing Chinese jazz, news bulletins broadcast by The China Press, a Bed Time story by Thorton Burgess, and select and request phonograph selections, including a number of the latest received in Shanghai.

Mr. Victor Prince, the well known comedian with the Gilbert and Sullivan singers, was ill and unable to appear on last night's radio program, greatly to the disappointment of a number of fans who wanted to hear him again. Mr. Prince will try to arrange to appear on the program before the light opera troupe leaves Shanghai.

In addition to the increasing number of Shanghailanders who have been bitten by the radio bug and our now constant 'listeners in' on their own receiving sets extremely large and interested crowds are becoming initiated into the mysteries of wireless through the splendid series of lectures and demonstrations which Prof. C. H. Robertson and Dr. John Y. Lee are conducting this week at the Chinese Y.M.C.A. on Szechuen Road.

Tonight the students and faculty of the Evening School of Commerce will be the guests of the 'Y' at the demonstration and lecture and will later 'listen in' to The China Press concert.

DEATH OF THIRTY AT HANGCHOW IS STILL MYSTERY

No More Fatalities Reported But Score Are Seriously Ill

While the death toll still remains at thirty in the wholesale poisoning episode in the Chekiang First Normal School at Hangchow the authorities there are giving every effort in an attempt to place the blame for the tragedy.

How the arsenic came to be in the bowl in which the school rice was cooked is still a mystery, although many explanations have been put forward and motives of revenge and all the other attributes of human nature in its harmful periods have been ascribed to the poisoners—if the poisoning was premediated. One explanation given yesterday is that the cooks, in order to make the rice unpalatable and thus give them more 'squeeze' put soap which contained arsenic in the rice. The explanation is not given much credence, however, because of the large amount of poison found.

In conducting tests to determine the poison it was found that only one large bowl of rice contained the poison. A number of dogs were fed the rice served at the banquet and only those dogs that ate the rice from one large cooking bowl died.

Score Are Still Seriously Ill

(China Press Service)

Hangchow, March 13.—The total official death toll of the Normal School poison tragedy to date is twenty four, twenty two students and two servants. A score of others are still seriously ill but it is thought they will all survive. Dr. Price, English physician of Shanghai, Dr. Vilnich, German physician and a Japanese physician of Shanghai all arrived Monday and are in charge of the work at the school now.

Police Commissioner Hsia is giving personal attention to the investigation of the case. The kitchen of the school has been in charge of a committee of students. Last term the work of this committee was not at all approved by the student body. As a result of this the committee was changed and the new committee discharged the cook and called another. There seems to have been much feeling about this change and some suspect those disgruntled over the affair to be

Paris, March 13.—The occupied territory generally remains calm although an increasing number of small incidents in addition to the fatal affair at Buer and Dortmund attest the activity of Nationalist secret societies.

The workers are showing signs of tiredness as a result of the little success they have obtained by submission to the orders of Berlin.

It is, moreover, noteworthy that several speeches made in Germany on Sunday mark a certain tendency towards a wish to negotiate. It is especially with regard to foreigners that the German Government is endeavoring to affect a desire to begin negotiations in order to oppose German good intentions to the so-called coercion of the Allies. But for those intentions to produce effects it is necessary for the German Government to have a sincere desire and the capacity to realise fiscal reform, without which promises for the settlement of reparations would be only deceptions.

Paris, March 13.—The British press is giving less and less space to the affairs of the Ruhr and is giving more attention to internal politics.

The Daily Mail states that the mere fact that Britain has openly disinterested herself in the occupation of the Ruhr since the beginning has encouraged the Germans to resist. It was pure folly on their part as Mr. Lloyd George declared on May 5, 1921. The Ruhr taken away, industrial Germany perishes; she can no longer exist.

London, March 13.—In the House of Commons today the Government's majority fell to 48 in a division on Sir John Simon's motion to reduce the Foreign Office estimates in order to give attention to the increasingly grave events in the Ruhr.

A number of speakers criticised the Government's inactive policy. They emphasised the danger of war and urged an appeal to the League of Nations.

Mr. Asquith criticised the French policy and emphasised the enormous extension of the scope of the French operations in the Ruhr. He said that the encirclement of the British occupation area had strangled British trade.

Mr. Ronald McNeill, Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, replying, reiterated the policy enunciated by Mr. Bonar Law and emphasised that the Government and the country were still friendly to France.

He said that, while the Government fully recognised the deplorable seriousness of the position and the difficulties had in some respects increased, it was still as anxious as ever to maintain friendship with France and to avoid a final break.

The motion was rejected by 249 votes to 201.

involved in the crime. Several arrests have been made and a member of persons are under surveillance.

The customs of the Chinese make it almost impossible to have post mortem examinations but Commissioner Hsia is trying to overcome these obstacles and have a careful examination made. Prof. Howe of the Hangchow Christian College who analyzed the poison as arsenic has since had his findings confirmed by the two medical schools of the city. It is found to have been present in very large quantities, being perhaps two or more pounds in all, a lump almost as large as one's head. So large an amount should be easy to trace but as yet it has not been discovered who put it into the rice kettle nor the source from which it was secured. All Hangchow hopes for an early solution of the whole mystery.

Great throngs have been crowding around the gates of the Normal School, but only those with friends or relatives within are allowed to enter. Physicians are in constant attendance on the sick.

about 75 percent of the worms before they reach the spinning stage, while in Canton it is as high as 90 percent. Modern Pasteur methods are being employed in the selection of eggs and excellent results have been obtained, four piculs of dry cocoons giving one picul of silk, whereas with non-selected eggs nearly seven piculs are required.

During the past ten months some 14,000 bales of white steam filature silk were exported to France and about 11,500 bales white steam filature sent to the United States. The demand has been very good in Lyons, the manufacturers there paying, in some instances, more than the American buyers. Of course, the French silk manufacturers have not been keen on improvements to the silk of China. They have been content to buy what has been offered in the market. The American manufacturers are particular as their mills require the silk to run very fast, while in France they run fairly slow, and labor is comparatively cheaper in France.

Chang Chien Wires Gen. Chi Shih-yuan On Hwai River Plan

In connection with the Hwai River Conservancy scheme, Mr. Chang Chien, noted industrial leader, has telegraphed Tuchun Chi Shih-yuan, of Kiangsu, assuring him of agreement with his policy in that matter. The text of the telegram follows:

"Your telegram of yesterday received. Re Hwai River conservancy project, it greatly concerns people's prosperity. Out of its devotion to public good the Chinese Foreign Famine Relief Committee wishes to assist in this undertaking. You have secured the concurrence of the Governors of the different provinces concerned (Anhwei and Honan) and telegraphed jointly to the Central Government for registration, which clearly shows to both Chinese and foreigners your keen interest in people's affairs. When my son was in Peking some time ago, the authorities questioned him on this particular subject. He repeatedly and fully explained to them that your policy is mine. It is hard to judge whether or not there still exists any misunderstanding. The other day I again received a telegram from the Central Government inquiring about my views. In my reply I fully stated what the Chinese Foreign Famine Relief Committee had accomplished and your keen interest in people's affairs.

Chang Chien."

Iolanthe

Mrs. Roy Workman took the part of "Strephon" last night at the Lyceum Theater in the G. and S. play "Iolanthe." The character he portrayed sums up the production. It seems that Gilbert made "Strephon" from the waist upwards an immortal, but from the same part downwards be very mortal. That about sums up the piece. It is a delightful mixture of the real and the fanciful.

Iolanthe is a delightful trifle. It is sparkling with wit, it is brim full of melody; it is topical; in parts it is prophetic. "The Yeoman of the Guard" may have its thrills; "The Gondoliers" may have its Sparkling Eyes; "The Pirates of Penzance" may have its Policeman's Chorus, and all the other plays may have all the other good things, but I cannot help but think that in "Iolanthe" G. and S. went just one better on themselves. They gave us a perfectly charming fairy story, and they made it so human that we all could enter into its spirit.

As I have started to write about young Roy Workman I may as well continue, especially as it is that young actor's principal part in the present series. He has a nice baritone voice; he speaks well; his acting is convincing, and he is an example of the saying that "there is something in heredity after all." Quite a dainty study of a dainty part.

"The Chancellor" was Charles Workman. Charles is Roy's papa. Charles, last night, was again in great form. I must mention his business in his big song in Act I. He was talking about the Army, the Navy, the Church, the Bar etc. an by the slightest movement he conveyed to his audience just the right idea. His work in that particular verse was as clever as anything that anyone would wish to see.

But, I cannot say anything more about Charles Workman. He is a G. and S. man, and simply breathes the same air that the famous duo did. I happened to see him in the interval, and he told a few stories off the stage that would have proved a distinct hit if he had told them on. They would have knocked many of us off our seats, D. G. (Sorry T. M.)

Jack Ralston and Jack Kinson both had fine songs to deliver. They knew how to do it. The audience mightily appreciated their efforts. Ralston had quite a lot of other work to do as well, and he came through in his usual fine style.

Gordon Crocker improves on acquaintance. As the "Earl of Tolloller" he was most acceptable. His fine presence and natural acting makes him a favorite.

"The Queen of the Fairies" was Miss Christine Lorimer. She is a splendid actress, and is the possessor of a powerful contralto voice. Last night she was in tip top form, and won hearty applause from the big house.

Dainty Miss Byrl Walkely played the name part. She endears herself more and more to us every time she appears. Excellent work little lady—and congrats.

Miss Patti Russell was another of the hits. She gave quite a faithful portrayal of "Phyllis." Her singing was as delightful as ever.

Chorus and mounting were again well in keeping with a first class production.

Tonight: Patience.

NEW FIRE STATION IN BUBBLING WELL DISTRICT IS PLAN

Council Approves Appropriation; Also Endorses Staff Additions

A new fire station in the Bubbling Well District, for which Taels 53,000 has been appropriated; revision of the strength of the Fire Department by the addition of eight officers, a stenographer and a clerical assistant, and an additional motor pump, have been authorised by the Watch Committee of the Municipal Council, following a discussion of recommendations made by Assistant Chief Gordon Dyson, acting head of the brigade until Chief M. W. Pett returned.

The Watch Committee refused to authorise the purchase of an extension turntable escape, a second motor pump and a new fire boat and turned down a recommendation for the expenditure of Taels 35,000 as part cost of an alarm system.

A wireless set for experimental purposes will be authorised for one station but the Committee voted against wireless equipment for all stations.

Chinese Can Work For Education In U.S.

nt, student or other exempt, they ll being on the same plane in this espect, and immediately there- fter he assumes the roll of a laborer rather than that of his exempt status, then, obviously, his entry was a fraud for by his own conduct he demonstrates that he was not actually this merchant, student or other exempt he claim- ed to be at the time of entry.

This brings us then to consider the effect upon the right to enter and remain here, of labor per- formed while the Chinese person is following his exempt status of merchant, student etc.

Upon this point the Courts have also sufficiently spoken to enable a definite conclusion to be reach- ed. Thus in May Kong Chiu v United States 246 Fed. 94,37, the Court said:

"On the other hand it is well settled that a Chinese person, who lawfully enters this country as a student, may not be deported be- cause he temporarily engages in manual labor while attending school. See in re Tam Chung (D. C.) 223 Fed. 801 and cases cited on page 803."

In Tam Chung 223 Fed. 801, 802 the point is more elaborately dealt with as follows:

"Our treaty with China promises that Chinese students shall be allowed to go and come of their own free will and accord, and shall be accorded all the rights, privileges, immunities and ex- emptions which are accorded to the citizens and subjects of the most favored nation 22 Stat, 826. The Chinese exclusion act pro- vides for identification and ad- mission of Chinese students, but neither therein, nor in any other law has Congress repudiated the aforesaid treaty promise of this nation. Students of all other nations coming hither, can of right, follow any legitimate voca- tion contemporaneous with or after their studies are completed, thereto need the consent of no immigration officer, can remain here as long as they please, and can not be deported because there- of. Chinese are guaranteed the like rights by our treaty. Having lawfully entered this country, there is no law authorising their deportation for any reason save that applicable to all aliens, for offenses committed subsequent to entry and connected with or in- cidental to prostitution.

"Probably Congress could have broken our plighted faith and treaty by law stipulating that Chinese students should loaf in their leisure and not labor for a living—could have placed Chinese students who here turn to honest labor for a livelihood on the plane of panders and prostitutes so far as deportation is concerned; but happily, not having done so, it needs no argument to demonstrate that the Secretary of Labor can not—that it is not given to him, to violate the national promise, repudiate the treaty, and convert it into a mere scrap of paper."

See also United States v. Gin Ong 253 Fed. 210.

The rule deducible from the ad- judicated cases may be stated as follows, viz., that labor is not necessarily incompatible with the pursuit of an exempt status, and that where the evidence establishes that the dominant purpose of the Chinese person in coming to this ountry was to follow one of the ept avocations, the perform- of labor as an incident eto, e.g. as a means of pro- g funds to enable him to tain his student statu- would not render his entry in- valid, or subject him to subsequent deportation.

The correctness of this rule may be further demonstrated by the fact that in respect to mer- chants alone Congress has specifically forbidden the performance of labor not necessary to the carrying on of his business. See section 2 of the Chinese Exclusion Act of November 3, 1893, 28 Stat. 78. If Congress had intend- ed the same restriction to apply to students and other exempts, it is natural to suppose that it would have so provided.

I therefore have the honor to advise you that when the labor performed is only in connection with or in furtherance of the maintenance of the status of student, there is no provision of law, for the exclusion or de- portation of such Chinese person.

Respectfully
Harry Daugherty.

To the Secretary of Labor.

Taxes Hamstring British Capital Says Eric Geddes

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 13.—Sir Eric Geddes, addressing the Federation of British Industries at Birming- ham today, said that he doubted whether the trade improvement of 1922 would continue owing to the dislocation arising from the oc- cupation of the Ruhr, which would cripple German industry and im- pair the productive capacity of France and Belgium, both react- ing unfavorably throughout the world.

"We require increased capital to employ the increasing popula- tion, but the country is being taxed out of existence," he said. "It seemed unlikely that there will be any surplus of national income over expenditure to add to our available capital. The recent estimates were not en- couraging.

"The Government is taking two years to effect the economies which the Geddes Committee re- commended carrying out in a year."

In conclusion, Sir Eric assured the Government of the support of the trading community if they courageously explored further avenues of economy.

CHEN'S TEAM IS LEADING IN "Y" MEMBERS' DRIVE

Workers Headed By S. P. Fong Have Highest Total For Week

The winning team of the Y.M.C.A. membership and financial campaign for the second week closing last night at 8 o'clock was led by Mr. Fong Sing-pah, vice-chairman of the Chamber of Commerce. The number of points registered by him and his co-workers for the week was 3112. This team was awarded 100 prize points as the result of the week's success.

A close second in the contest for the week's points was the team of Mr. Walter H. Chen which brought in 2228 points. They received an award of 75 points. The contest between these two leading teams is very close and a warm struggle is on for the honors. There are about 60 workers in each of these teams.

The contest for the second week, counting only the first five teams was as follows:

Team	Captain	Points
1. Chinchou,	S. P. Fong	3213
2. Youchou,	W. H. Chen	2303
3. Suchou,	Y. S. Tsai	2057
4. Yuchou,	K. B. Chang	1124
5. Yungchow,	T. R. Chang ..	1001

The total results for the first week was 7,420, for the second week was 12,402 making a total of 19,822. The teams at 8 p.m. stand as follows:

Team	Captain	Points
1. Youchow,	W. H. Chen	5435
2. Chinchou,	C. P. Fong	3213
3. Suchou,	Y. S. Tsai	2730
4. Yungchou,	T. Y. Chang	2146
5. Yuchou,	K. B. Chang	2132
6. Liangchou,	S. S. Voong ...	1213
7. Yenchou,	S. U. Zau	1117
8. Pingchou,	Hon. Hsu Yuen ..	1000
9. Tsingchou,	K. S. Lee	806

The three teams which have not so far reported are Chichou team, Yingchou team, and the Yangchou team.

Each point counts one dollar in contributions or membership fees. The campaign closes on March 24 and the goal is $60,000. It is reported that several of the teams are holding points "up their sleeves" and these will begin to show up when the third week's results are posted next Wednesday evening.

There are about 700 workers engaged and many of these have agreed to give largely of their time during the last week of the effort. The goal is a total membership of 5,000 and the sum of $28,218 in contributions. This is the amount required for the 1923 budget.

Rotary Club To Entertain Boy Scouts Today

Executives of the Boy Scouts and 20 Scouts will be the guests of honor at the weekly, tiffin of the Rotary Club at noon today.

Because of fixed engagements the president of the Baden-Powell Association, Mr. Sydney Barton, the British Consul-General; and the vice-president, Sir Edward Pearce, are prevented from attending. The other vice-president, Mr. G. M. Billings, and Mr. Percy Fowler of the Executive Committee will be present.

A plank in the Rotary Club's aims in all countries is to show an active practical interest in work among boys. The conditions peculiar to Shanghai are such that scope and opportunity in that direction is to some extent restricted and the members take a keen interest in the Boy Scouts.

Mr. E. S. B. Rowe Appointed Acting Secretary Of Council

Boom In Iron And Steel Aid Metal Dealers

it as gathering strength with dangerous rapidity. There is apparent a rather general change of consumer attitude, now seeking hastening of deliveries or an increase in the size of orders. There is no falling off in the heavy demand for steel. A number of producers are virtually out of the market. With some consumers it now seems to be more of a question of deliveries than price.

TIN ACTIVE

Great activity has been manifested in tin during the week on the London Metals Exchange and the price has risen very sharply to £224¾, in one day alone—on Monday to be precise—the quotation going up from £217¾ to the figure above mentioned. At the beginning of the week the commodity stood at £200. There is considerable excitement, but there is some fear that the Government of the Federated Malay States will soon take advantage of the recent sharp rise and unload its stocks of tin. The present advance is equivalent to the price fixed by the F.M.S. Government for the ultimate disposal of its stocks. Opinion in well-informed circles seems to be that it is not likely that the Government will unload its supplies, the available stocks being well controlled.

The following are the latest prices for some of the principal iron and steel products on the London Metals Exchange with the comparative prices ruling on January 6:

Tinplates 23s. 3d., per box against 20s. 0d., Standard copper per case against $4.75, Zinc £7.85 against £7.07, Lead £8.42 against £7.37, Aluminium £25.75 against £23.25, Electrolytic copper 17 £72½ against £64.10, Electrolytic Copper £80.15 against £71.10, Tin £224¾ against £180.15, Lead £29¼ against £26½, Spelter £36.15 against £33⅞, Chinese antimony £19 against £18 c.i.f. London.

The American prices have been equally advanced and, in certain lines, to a larger extent. The prices of some products compare as follows with those prevailing in the first week of this year:

Pig iron $29.50 against $21.96, Steel bars, steel shapes and tank plates $2.32 per 100 lbs. against $2.00, Billets $42.50 per ton against $36.50, Black sheets $3.55 against $3.30, Galvanised sheets $4.67 per 100 lbs. against $4.30, Tinplates $5.10 against 14¾, Antimony $9 against $6.37.

REMINGTON TYPEWRITER PROGRESS

Forty-eighth Year of the Organization's Business Life is Made Memorable by Announcement of the Improved Self Starting Remington for Office Use, and the New Remington Portable.

Within the last few months the Remington Typewriter Company has made two noteworthy contributions to typewriter progress.

First, is the improved Self Starting Remington, the sum of 48 years of experience in the manufacture of writing machines. Second, is the wonderful Remington Portable which fits in a case only 4 inches high and is especially designed for the traveling man, field engineer, author, minister, school boy and girl and in fact anyone who has casual writing to do

The Improved Self Starting Remington is a machine for the expert but not the expert alone. It is certain to have exceptional popularity with the student, beginner and the novice, because it helps them to turn out good, acceptable work from the very outset.

The fact that the Remington Portable Typewriter has the standard keyboard has already insured its exceptional popularity. It has the same number of printing keys, same size, same arrangement, as any standard machine. This means that from the operator's standpoint it is exactly like the standard machine. Mr. G. O. Jackson Gives Delightful Talk To Club Here

TELLS OF HISTORY

Shows How Modern School Is Essentially Safety Play

Mr. G. O. Jackson gave an interesting lecture on the characteristic of the modern school of chess last evening at a meeting of the Chess Club, held at the Trocadero. Mr. Jackson outlined the history of the game, demonstrating the various advances and changes in systems of play.

He described chess as a game derived from Arabian sources, the Arabian game being called Shatranj, a derivative of the Sanscrit Chaturanga, that is to say "the four membered game," the four members of an Indian army being the chariots, elephants, cavalry and infantry, corresponding in our modern game to the rooks, bishops, knights and pawns.

Before touching on the modern game, the speaker gave a brief summary of the original game and its development in the course of the ages.

The original game was arranged quite in accordance with modern ideas, but the powers of the pieces were different, e.g.

The King could not castle;

The Queen (Firzan or Councellor) moved like a modern bishop, but only one square at once.

The Bishop (Elephant) moved like the modern piece, but could jump over pieces, and moved two squares at a time.

The Knight (Horse) and Rook (Chariot) had their present-day powers.

The Pawn (Foot Soldier) moved and captured as at present, but could only move one square at a time, and was always promoted to Firzan (Queen).

Owing to the limited range of action of the pieces, development was not particularly important, and the game only really started after contact had been established between the opposing forces.

A typical development, was the 'Mutannidh," which was illustrated on the board. The general idea of continuing the attack was after Pawn exchanges to open files for the Rooks and attack the hostile King with them in conjunction with Bishops and Knights, reserving the Queen for defence.

Modern chess undoubtedly originated in Italy about the end of the fifteenth century, said the speaker, when the Queen and Bishop received their present powers Lucena wrote a book, apparently composed in a great hurry, about the new chess in which a number of curious errors occurred, due to confusion between the old and new rules. A specimen game was given.

About this time present rules of Pawn take Pawn "en passant," and castling came into effect, but the chess world generally did no adopt them, for instance the Pawn rule held good in Spain but not in Italy, and in quite a number of cases castling was not permitted if the King had once undergone check.

Damiano in 1512 practically rewrote Lucena, and his work, though quite mediocre, had a great popularity until Lopez, in 1561, brought out a book in which the principal features were the opening bearing his name, and a few remarks on Pawn play, which undoubtedly paved the way two centuries later for Philidor's ideas on the subject of Pawns. Lopez himself, though rather a poor analyst, was reckoned for a period of twenty years as the finest player in Spain, and his ideas continued to form the recognised authority until Polerio, who practically re-wrote his book and brought it up to date somewhere about the year 1584, and devoted a great deal of attention to Gambit play.

"OPEN" PLAY

The importance of rapid development together with "open" play was a characteristic of the Italian School, contemporary writers being Gianutio and Salvio, but the climax of the Italian School was reached in Greco who wrote continuously from 1619 onwards, but only really brought his works up to the modern standard in 1625. His books were brilliant and added greatly to the popularity of the game.

For quite a long time the development of the game was suspended, though there are records that it was played as enthusiastically as ever. A specimen game played in Paris about 1680 was given here.

The next noteworthy work was published in London in 1745 by Philip Stamma, whose reputation rests mainly on his collection of hundred end-games, some of which are old favorites going back to Moslem days, and the majority are also highly artificial in their construction, though Stamma claimed that all the positions had occurred to him in actual play.

About 1748 Philidor published by subscription in England and France his "Analyse du Jeu des Echecs" at the early age of 23, and produced a book of singular maturity for one so young. The secret of his success was that he evolved definite theory and followed it consistently. He belonged essentially to the school of Lopez, and was the first to emphasise the importance of controlling the center of the board, and further, subordinated everything to the effort to convert his Pawns into Queens. He did one great service to chess in establishing the winning power of the Rook against the bishop, but had a strong objection to developing his Knight on the second move at KB3, and attached far too great a value to the Pawns. Naturally the Italian players, who were always opposed to the principles of Lopez, brought out an opposition school led by Ponziani, Ercole del Rio and Lolli, who all followed the principles of allowing full liberty for the pieces, and very little has been added to our knowledge of either the Guioco Piano or the Cambits since their time.

ENGLISH SCHOOL

The next step in the development of our game was the appearance of an English book "Progressive Lessons" published by Lewis during 1831 and 1832. He introduced us to the Evans Gabbit and made a feature in the defence of many openings of the move P. Q. 4. His style of play, generally termed the English school, governed the practice of English and German players down to the time of Steinitz, and reached its highest point in the play of the young American genius, Paul Morphy. An example of Morphy's play was given here.

With the advent of Steinitz we come to what is called the "Modern School," though Steinitz was not either the sole originator or the most successful exponent of it. The Modern School is the direct result of the tournament system, when the result of each round depends upon a single game; the player naturally declines to risk anything by a direct attack when its failure will leave him with a compromised position. In this connection it may be pointed out that in our present state of knowledge the possibilities of winning or drawing are definitely known for nearly every conceivable class of game ending, so the modern player has a great advantage over his predecessors in that he knows what to avoid and consequently does not waste any time striving to bring about an impossible result. Another factor bearing on modern style is the introduction of the time limit, and it is noteworthy how often the losing move is made at the critical moment when the clock is nearing the fatal 30th move to be completed before the second hour in master play.

IS SAFETY PLAY

The Modern School is essentially safety play, and openings are restricted to the safe and well-known paths of the Four Knights, Ruy Lopez and the various Queen's Side Openings. The tactics of the game are now directed towards the establishment of a safe position which presents no weak points by which the opponent can force an entry. This has substituted strategy for the older attacking combinations, and has given rise to a new theory of Pawn play.

The Pawn is now regarded as strongest at home, and weaker the more it is advanced, because in advancing it leaves behind it "holes" or squares which cannot be guarded by Pawns.

The tactics of the middle game consist in making use of any small weaknesses in the opponent's position, or in compelling him to create such faults, and the minute advantages thus gained are tenaciously hung on to until a winning ending is attained after the reduction of forces by judicious exchanges.

Another feature which is becoming evident in the play of Capablanca and of various modern Russian players, Alechin in particular, is that freedom of action is desired, and there is a tendency to disregard end-game considerations for a process of slow strangulation, and a move which restricts the mobility of the opposing forces is preferred by these players to an essentially safe one leading on to a known ending with winning chances.

In conclusion the lecturer acknowledged his indebtedness to Mr. H. J. R. Murray's book on the "History of Chess" for the historical details supplied, and gave a game played by Capablanca versus Yates in the Hastings Victory Tournament, which exemplified the characteristics he described.

CHEN STAR OF CHINESE CO. AT MEETING

Wins Grand Aggregate At Annual Shoot, Scoring 180

MANY MARKSMEN

Many Third Class Shots Leap To First Class; Records Good

In spite of the bad weather, some very good scores were made by the members of the Chinese Company, S.V.C., at the Spring rifle meeting held last Saturday and Sunday. The weather was so ugly and threatening that for a time it was thought advisable to abandon the shoot but as the wind was not very strong in the afternoon on Saturday the Committee decided to proceed. The same kind of weather prevailed the next day with very strong wind blowing. Nevertheless the men showed marked ability to shoot even in bad weather as the scores clearly indicate.

One remarkable thing is that many of the third class shots completely surprised others by jumping into the first class. The number of marksmen will probably increase by 100 percent this year.

As some of the men also took the opportunity to shoot off their trained men's Course, the officers of the headquarters staff were also on the range during the shoot. Needless to say, the officers of the Company as well as the N.C.O's. worked hard throughout the two days.

Among the officers present, both of the headquarters and the company, were: Capt. A. J. Stewart, Assistant Adjutant; Capt. T. A. Zee, Adviser to Chinese Co., Sgt.-Major D. Leighton, Qm. Sgt. W. T. Rose, Sgt.-Major C. S. Kemp, Capt.

Anything is good enough until something comes along that's better. A good imitation passes admiration until compared with the genuine. Then the difference is readily seen. Likewise with records. By the expertly trained ear, however quality is quickly detected.

Good Living

We ought to be able to get a good living, even to make a fortune and yet have a jolly good time every day of our lives. The idea of being a slave most of the time, and of only occasionally enjoying a holiday, is all wrong. Every day should be a holiday, a day of joy and gladness, a day of supreme happiness and it would be if lived sanely, if we knew the secret of right thinking and moral living.

Peking Diplomats Urge Consolidation Of Loans

Peking, March. 13.—According to a report emanating from Legation sources, the Diplomatic Corps recently held a meeting to discuss the proposal of the Chinese Government to organise a Domestic and Foreign Loan Consolidation Commission in consequence of the repeated representations made by the foreign Ministers for the necessity of consolidating a sinking fund for foreign debts. The following resolutions were adopted:—

1. It is the opinion of the Diplomatic Corps that the China Domestic and Foreign Loan Consolidation Commission, the organisation of which has been proposed by the Chinese Government, shall be composed of delegates of the Ministries of Finance, Communications and Foreign Affairs, the Inspector-General of the Maritime Customs and representatives of the foreign banks concerned. The Salt Revenue Administration, the Tobacco and Wine Revenue Administration and the Salt Gabelle also should be represented on the Commission.

2. The Diplomatic Corps shall ask the Chinese Government to designate the Customs, salt, tobacco and wine revenues and the receipts accruing from the Peking-Hankow and Tientsin-Pukow Railways for the consolidation of the sinking fund for foreign loans. The term "customs revenue" shall include both the customs surplus derived from the effective 5 percent advalorem duty and the entire amount of the two and a half percent surtax to be levied later.

3. The Diplomatic Corps cannot entertain the proposal of the Chinese Government to deposit the revenues to be applied for foreign loan service with Chinese banks for fear of misappropriation by the governmental authorities. It proposes that such revenue shall be deposited with the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation, the Yokohama Specie Bank, the International Banking Corporation, the Banque de l'Indo-Chine and the Russo-Asiatic Bank. It agrees, however, to deposit a part of these revenues with Chinese Banks on condition that these banks shall permit auditors appointed by the creditor Powers to inspect their accounts with regard to the deposits.

4. The thirteen creditor Powers shall submit to the Doyen of the Diplomatic Corps within three months detailed lists showing the amounts, descriptions and term of, and the security for loans previously advanced by their nationals to the Chinese Government or provincial authorities.

British Supreme Court

At the British Supreme Court yesterday, before Sir Skinner Turner, the case of the Hongkong Companies' Ordinance 1911-1921 in the matter of the Yangsze Land Co. (in liquidation) was heard.

The Crown Advocate, Mr. H. P. Wilkinson, appeared for the Registrar of Companies and Mr. Reader Harris represented the liquidators.

Mr. Reader Harris made a motion on behalf of Arthur Dallas and R. M. Saker for an order for a statement to be made by the liquidators on the prescribed form within 14 days. There were only three shareholders in the private company, and the land in Chinkiang having been sold, it was decided to divide the profits between the shareholders and wind up the company. Through inadvertence three statements had not been filed with the Registrar.

Commenting upon the application the Crown Advocate said that in most cases where application was made for relief it seemed as if the applicants treated the regulations as unimportant or as joss pidgin and got a lawyer to get them out of trouble. The present was one of the mildest of 20 cases which had recently been brought before that Court.

The Judge again issued a stern warning in regard to the Ordinance, and pointed out that in this case the penalty ran to the tune of $500 a day, and as it had been admitted that the necessary statements had not been filed since 1921 anyone who liked could work out that piece of arithmetic. He would grant relief in this case, but one of these days men who did not take the trouble to comply with the ordinance would be surprised to find other steps being taken on non-fulfilment of the regulations.

Extension of time for filing the necessary statements was granted, applicants to pay the costs.

One Phase Of The Russian Problem

WHILE Shanghai is deeply concerned with the problem of relieving distressed Russian refugees, the same problem on a much wider scale continues to engross the United States. The question what the American people should do for the relief of the starving Russians, not in America but in Russia, has been brought to the front once more by the report of the National Bureau of Information just made public in Washington.

The estimates of the number in danger of starvation is somewhere near eight millions, of whom three millions are children. Last Winter the American relief agencies, with the assistance of the Government appropriation of $24,000,000 spent about $60,000,000 gold and cared for about eleven millions of children and adults. There are funds in hand and in prospect to feed three million children until the next harvest. This narrows the problem, serious enough at best, to five million adults. The prompt general appeal to repeat, only in lesser measure because of the somewhat lessened need, what was done last Winter.

There is, however, a disturbing factor, which in all honesty must be mentioned. The Russian Government is, according to credible reports, shipping grain across the very areas where millions will die unless relief is given from somewhere outside. What explanation can be given in defense of a sale of foodstuffs by the Soviets even to buy agricultural implements and animals for next year's plowing and cultivation? The practical person will ask why the surplus at home cannot be immediately applied to the saving of life and then an appeal made, if need be, to America and the other nations for the capital necessary to furnish needed plows and other needed implements and animals and raw materials.

It was given out some months ago by the Soviet Government that the tax in kind would yield enough to enable it to feed all the town people and all those peasants who had a crop shortage, and yet leave something of a surplus in the hands of the more fortunate peasants. This seems now to have been an overestimate. However that may be, food shipped out would diminish by just so much the saving of life for this Winter, unless food can, though at greater cost because shipped from ports thousands of miles away, or at greater sacrifice on the part of growers at a great distance, be supplied from abroad.

It is a perplexing problem, because the Soviets are looking to the future and are apparently willing to sacrifice millions of lives for it, or to look to the pity of others to save them. Russia certainly has "collateral" enough for all the implements and seed and power she needs for next season's plowing and sowing and cultivating and harvesting, if only she is willing to put it into the hands of those ready to supply these necessaries. And American charity will no doubt be quick to supply any need that is clear and urgent beyond that which the entire product of Russia's own fields has actually brought into her common storehouse. Meanwhile, we are told, funds are in hand for the children, and that relief will go on unless a perverse Government should let them also be sacrificed, despite all that sympathy is eager to do for them.

Miss Ima Hoot Nanny sez she sees where Sir Eric Geddes says the British are being taxed out of existence and she doesn't see why they do rise up and demand the Single Tax.

I told them to look at an apple tree
In a gust of blossom. They could not see.

I told them to notice people's faces
In quiet, unexpected places;

To catch the flying speech of eyes,
And stumble on some young surprise

Of joy as sharp as any dawn
Or afternoon across a lawn.

I told them to look at a thin, white steeple
Soaring above a throng of people,

And listen to the people's cheers
When some one spoke. They had no ears

Instead, they led me to a hill
Above a bay. The noon was still,

The waters of the bay were cold;
mold.

Gravestones were scattered through the grass
So close there was no room to pass

For any save the narrow dead
Who need no paths on which to tread.

Reddy Fox Is Too Clever For Old Man Coyote

BY T. W. BURGESS

*A nimble wit will do for you
What size and strength could never do.* —Reddy Fox.

Reddy Fox had no desire to fight Old Man Coyote. In the first place, Old Man Coyote was too big. Reddy knew that he would have no chance. Yes, sir, he knew that he would have no chance at all. In the second place, he didn't feel like fighting anybody. He had caught three mice, and with those for his dinner he couldn't very well feel ill natured if he wanted to.

He knew that Old Man Coyote was in a bad temper and he guessed the reason why. He guessed that Old Man Coyote had failed to catch Peter Rabbit and Mrs. Peter and that he blamed him for the failure. He guessed that Old Man Coyote was very hungry and that he would just as soon dine on Fox as on any one else. So as soon as he discovered that Old Man Coyote was chasing him Reddy started off as fast as his legs could take him. He knew that Old Man Coyote could run quite as fast as he could and that to get rid of Old Man Coyote he would have to do more than simply run.

"He can run as fast and as far as I can," thought Reddy. "He can go wherever I can. If he really means to catch me he'll do it unless I can fool him in some way. I've noticed that Old Man Coyote keeps away from Farmer Brown's house when there is any one about. I've never known him to go up there if there were any signs of folks being at home. I guess that is the place for me to go now. It will be the quickest way to get rid of him."

So Reddy turned and headed straight for Farmer Brown's. Looking back over his shoulder, he saw that Old Man Coyote was following him. It was clear to Reddy that Old Man Coyote either hadn't noticed in what direction they were going or felt sure that he, Reddy, would turn aside before he got very near Farmer Brown's barnyard. If Reddy hadn't been quite so anxious he would have chuckled. It would be time for chuckling after he was rid of Old Man Coyote, so Reddy didn't chuckle. He devoted all his attention to running.

As he drew near Farmer Brown's he could hear voices in the barnyard. It was daylight and folks were up. This just exactly suited him. He was running so as to keep behind the barn. Looking back over his shoulder, he saw that Old Man Coyote was still following. Reddy kept on. When he reached the back of the barn he ran around the corner of it, then up along the side of the barn, and finally right out into the barnyard. Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's Boy were both at work in the barnyard. Reddy sped right past them and over into the Old Orchard. There he sat down to see what would happen.

Both Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's Boy exclaimed right out when they saw Reddy. Bowser the Hound was in the house, and for this Reddy was thankful. He knew that neither Farmer Brown nor Farmer Brown's Boy could hurt him if they wanted to, for they had no terrible gun. He doubted if they wanted to hurt him, for he had come to look on Farmer Brown's Boy as a friend. So at a safe distance in the Old Orchard he sat and grinned while he waited for Old Man Coyote to show himself.

But Old Man Coyote didn't show himself. He stopped back of the barn. He heard the voices of Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's Boy. He had no desire to be seen. Turning, he swiftly trotted back the way he had come. From where he sat in the Old Orchard Reddy Fox saw him trotting back toward the Green Forest. Then Reddy chuckled. Yes, indeed, Reddy chuckled. He was still chuckling when he finally trotted off in another direction. He had been too clever for Old Man Coyote.

-:- Acquired Charms -:-

BY DOROTHY DIX

There are times when I think that what the world needs more than anything else is a social Luther Burbank who can change a wall flower into the sort of a rosebud that a man instinctively plucks, and pins on his breast.

At any rate, there isn't a day in the year when I don't get from one to a dozen letters from girls asking how they can make themselves attractive to men, and secure the masculine attention that is necessary to their having a good time.

"I am pretty, I dress well. My mother entertains for me. I cannot see in what way I am inferior to the girls that men flock around," wail these disconsolate ones, "yet no man ever comes to our house unless he is specifically invited there. When I go to a party, no man ever dances with me unless my hostess makes him, and when he does he looks like a lamb being led to the slaughter. Why am I what is popularly called a 'lemon'? And is there any cure for 'lemon-ness!'"

Why some women attract men, while others repulse them is a mystery that no one has ever been able to solve. It isn't the matter of beauty, nor brains, nor any of the standardized virtues that you can put your finger on, and say, "Acquire this" or "do that," and you will appeal to men.

For we all know living pictures that are left hanging upon the home walls, and homely ladies who have had three husbands already, and still have a waiting list. We know vivacious girls who never have a beau, and tongue tied ones that men swarm around like bees around a honey pot. We know viragos whose husbands worship them, and household angels who are deserted wives. And so it goes, and the masculine fancy bloweth where it listeth, and no woman knows which way, to set her sails to catch it.

For a woman to be really attractive to men—to be the kind of a girl that men rave after, she has to be born that way. Nature must have endowed her with the come-hither look in her eye to which every son of Adam instinctively responds, but even when this has been denied a maiden, there are a number of things which she can do to camouflage her lack of attractions for the opposite sex, and to prevent herself from having to sit among the chaperones at parties and acquire a face ache trying to look as if she liked it.

There is one thing about men for which women have to be grateful to a merciful providence, and that is that they are not analytical about women. Their attitude is the Doctor Yell one. They either like you or they don't like you, but the reason why they cannot tell, and they never seek to find out. That is why a girl who lacks real attraction for men can put over a side line of make believe attraction if she is clever and energetic enough to do it.

So my advice to any girl who wants to move herself out of the wall flower class is, first, to learn how to doll herself up. When our first mother was turned out of Eden, God gave her a dress as a consolation prize, and it still works. As long as hers are chiffons, and hair dressers, no woman need ever be hard on the eyes, or lack the means to attract the masculine gaze.

Only the trained eye of the artist—and praise Heaven few men are artists who can distinguish between a woman who is beautifully dressed, and one who is beautiful herself, nor can many men distinguish between a hand made complexion and the real thing. So any girl can soon get the reputation of being a good looker, of the sort that a man is proud to be seen about with, if she will take enough pains with her personal appearance.

My second piece of advice to the wall flower is to learn how to dance superlatively well. These are the days when it is better to have nimble feets than to have the beauty of Venus, and the wit of Aphasia. And when it profiteth a maiden not, if she has every other charm on earth to be heavy on her feet.

No girl who is a really wonderful dancer ever lacks for partners. Therefore if you each lure in other ways, spend your money and your time with some good dancing teacher until you are an expert in all of the latest toddles, and wiggles, and shakes, and shimmies, so shall you have to cut your dances up into mincemeat instead of staring forlornly at a blank program.

The third piece of advice that I would give the wallflower is to acquire adaptibility. Learn how to be a Jane-of-all-trades so that you can fill in wherever you happen to be. Learn how to play a good game of golf and a good game of bridge. Learn enough music to be able to play accompaniments for people who think they know how to sing, and to jazz for those who want to dance. The girl who can help other people to a good time is always in demand, and always popular.

My fourth piece of advice to the wallflower is to cultivate good nature. Be a good sport. Be easy to get along with. Be jolly and cheerful.

A man has to be actually in love with a woman before he is willing to take the trouble to entertain her, and he fights shy of the girl who expects him to make the conversational running, but he likes the society of the girl who will entertain him. All men are Grand Pashas at heart, and want women to dance before them, and divert them with Scherazade stories.

And my fifth piece of advice to the wall flower is, never let a man find out that you are a wall flower. The only rose that a man ever wants is the one that he thinks all the other men are breaking their necks to pluck.

Do You Profit By Your Mistakes?

BY J. J. MUNDY

Don't you excuse yourself too easily for errors you make?

You comfort yourself with the thought—"To err is human."

Do your mistakes make such an impression on you that you do not make the same mistake more than once?

Or do you lightly pass them over and consider them of small consequence?

Every time you make an error, it should be food for some good solid thought, that you may profit by the mistake; in this way you will make headway.

If you do not give a little thought to what you have done throughout the civilized world you are bound to keep on making mistakes, because not sufficiently on guard against them.

You may think the boss is pretty severe on you sometimes for the way he goes after you because of errors, but the fact that he does may be the only way you are keeping your position, for you are more particular on account of the scaring you get and that may be the only way you hold your job.

Why should he require to be forceful to make an impression on you?

If you are the sort that has to be hit on the head to stop where you are, then harsh treatment is required rather than mild.

The calling down you get so frequently may be of great value to you, if you have a mind to profit by it. Retain the helpful suggestions.

A LEGACY OF THE WAR.

Sir,

Owing to severe hardships while on active service, my health suffered seriously. Even after leaving the service, I did not pick up at all, and I never seemed to be well. Then, two years ago, my health broke down completely and I had to give up work. I was in hospital for a time, and also went to a convalescent home; this no doubt benefited me, but I was soon as bad as ever.

My nerves seemed all to pieces, and my head was in a constant whirl. Acute pain seized me after every meal, and at times nothing would stay on my stomach. The doctors said I was suffering from nervous debility and indigestion.

I took bottle after bottle of medicine, but got no better, and I lost hope of ever being well again. Then I read in a newspaper about Dr. Williams's pink pills, and decided to try them. About the second or third week after commencing the pills I felt a bit brighter, and could keep most of my food down. I continued with the pills, and got better. My nerves became steady, and the depression and weakness left me. I was soon completely cured, and able to start work again. Dr. Williams' pink pills have made a new man of me; in fact, I consider they saved my life,

I am, yours faithfully,
W. H. Procter,
1 Cross Dawlish Grove, East End Park, Leeds.

NOTE: Readers of this paper who wish to obtain the same remedy as so marvellously restored Mr. Procter to health can do so from their own chemist, as Dr. Williams' pink pills are sold by medicine vendors everywhere throughout the civilised world.

by

Author of "The Second Chinese Revolution," etc.

CHANG, the Chinese servant, who refers to himself modestly as "Small Me," tells his experiences and observations in the households of the white people.

The book abounds with screamingly humorous situations—it makes the reader acquainted with the delightful traits of the Chinese character, enables them to gain insight into the psychology of that much misunderstood race, their wit and their great sense of humor.

It is full of subtleties and allusions, some of a rather risque nature which the author handles with delicacy.

The author has lived for several years in China, speaks the language, and knows his subject as no other.

Stubborn Case of Boils & Pimples

"Can honestly say I am quite cured"

Our portrait is of Mr. W. BRIDAL, 27, Strand Street, Newtown, Mountain Ash, South Wales, Great Britain, who writes:

"It gives me great pleasure in telling you about the remarkable cure I found in Clarke's Blood Mixture for boils and pimples. After having suffered from time to time from both, and trying all kinds of so-called remedies, and being under doctor's treatment, I thought of Clarke's Blood Mixture, having tried it years ago with success for a similar complaint. After taking one bottle it seemed to drive them out, and after the second bottle I found a decided improvement, and continuing with your Mixture I can honestly say I am quite cured."

CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE, by reason of its remarkable blood purifying properties, can be relied upon to give speedy relief and lasting benefit in cases of Eczema, Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Boils, Pimples, Eruptions, Piles, Glandular Swellings, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Gout. Pleasant to take and free from anything injurious.

-:- About Water -:-

BY CARRETT P. SERVISS
(Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest)

Looking from my window I see the roads and fields buried deep in firm snow, which, where the chain-armored wheels of autos and the polished runners of Christmas sleds have packed it down, is as hard as slate rock, and not much more brittle.

Everybody knows that snow and ice are simply solidified water, but there is a way of looking at that fact which gives it a surprising significance.

If you lived on a high wall from which you couldn't get down, like St. Simon Stylites on his pillar, every time you approached the edge you would be forcibly reminded of the narrowness of your life's foothold. The snowy fields are a similar reminder of the very limited range of temperature within which our physical existence is confined.

In Winter we are near one of the edges, and must take our precautions against falling over it. The snow on the ground and the hardened soil beneath, remind us that one of the thermal limits of human life lies close by the point where almost the commonest of all substances — water — suddenly changes, by a "natural miracle," from one of the three fundamental states of matter into another, to wit, from a liquid it turns into a solid.

Our ordinary thermometers give us a false and misleading idea of heat and temperature. The real temperature gamut runs from absolute zero—complete absence of the molecular agitation called heat—up to an indeterminate maximum of thousands of degrees.

If we take the Centigrade scale, which is the best, and apply it to the absolute zero system, we have at the bottom, zero; at the point where water becomes solid (the freezing point) 273 degress; and at the point where water changes from liquid to vapor or gas (the boiling point) 373 degrees. The scale is continuous, with no minus signs.

Now, our life limits are confined within the range that water traverses in passing in succession, now one way, now the other, through the three fundamental states of all matter—gaseous, liquid, solid, or solid, liquid, gaseous. Considering how intimately organic life is linked with water, this fact alone gives us much to think about. That our life really is limited to the 100 degrees between the freezing and boiling points of water becomes evident when we consider that we cannot survive either of those temperatures if fully subjected to it.

As I see the sun flashing in the sunlight, I am reminded that it is "dead" water. Its marble beauty of crystallisation tells me that subjected for but a little while to the temperature which holds it there inert, I, too, should become motionless, save as the sport of the winds.

I do not wish to moralise on this theme. I draw no obvious suggestions from the fact that at the first touch of the higher temperature of Spring all that white, frozen mass will revive in murmuring streams and flying mists. But I note again the comradeship of water and organic life.

The living cells of the body depend for their continued life upon the "body fluid," which is really nothing but water with various materials dissolved in it. Even science is always guessing, like a child curiously feeling of the new world it finds itself projected into, and one guess has been that the remarkably uniform internal temperature of warm-blooded animals may be, in some way, a reminiscence of the warm bosom of the ancient ocean, the common mother of life.

Another guess, to be taken at a valuation not yet fixed, connects us with the water through the uniform percentage of salts dissolved in our blood and that of other land animals. Professor Ernest G. Martin writes:

"According to this theory there was a time when the ocean water was just about as salty as our body fluids at the present time, and it supposes also that was the time when the ancestors of present land animals crawled out of the ocean and took up their abode on land. Of course there is no way to prove that this is so, but it does account for the particular percentage of salts in our bodies as well as any other explanations we know anything about."

Bobbie And His Pa

BY WILLIAM F. KIRK

A grate manner-facterer, I doant know if I have got that spelt rite, departed from this here vale of teers the other day. Ma sed to Pa, and he left all his munny to his first wife, his second wife was ded, sed Ma. I think that was sweet of him, Ma sed, to remember his first wife was gone, doant you, Ma sed to Pa.

I doant know, sed Pa, I doant know anything about a second wife, nevver having had but the one sed Pa.

You may have a second wife, sum day, sed Ma.

Not me, sed Pa. Not this old sport, Pa sed. Of course thare is men that marries aggenn if thare first wifes kick the bucket, sed Pa, but if you shud happen to croke, sed Pa to Ma, I wud go cut to the mound in the semminary ware you are sleeping, sed Pa, and I wud freeze to deth neer yure tomb-stone, sed Pa.

How cheerful, sed Ma. Let us not speek of deth, Ma sed.

That is jest what I wud do, tho, sed Pa, I wud curl up and pass away if you left this here valley of work and taxes, sed Pa.

Wud you reely, deerest? sed Ma. Then I hoap I will live evver and ever so long, sed Ma. But if you shud happen to leeve me and marry aggenn, sed Ma, maybe you will think of themother of little Bobbie, sed Ma, and do what that rich manner-facterer did, sed Ma, leeve all yure munny to me.

I doant know, sed Pa, moast men that gits married too offen doant have any munny to leeve wen thay parrish, sed Pa.

Well, sed Ma, as long as you have promised me that you will not leeve me and marry a second mate, sed Ma, I feel better. I think it is butiful to see such deevoshun on the part of a husband nowdays, sed Ma.

There are many butiful things about my nater, sed Pa. No wonder you adder-mire me, sed Pa to Ma. I don't blame you not a bit, sed Pa.

Wen I grow up I will marry a lady that will live to be a old wh'te haired companyun of my dee-klining yeers, sed me to Pa and Ma.

Ware did you git that line, Bobbie? sed Pa.

Nevver mind ware I got that line, I sed. You herd me, dident you, I sed.

See here, young man, sed Pa, if you evver speek that way to me aggenn I will spank you good and plenty, sed Pa.

I think this is a funny wurld, wifes can leeve thare husbands and husbands can leeve their wives, but if a little boy leeves his father wen he gits spanked the little boy will git hungry and have to cum back hoam and git spanked sum moar, it is a tuff wurld for littel boys, I will end this rite now.

CASTORIA
for Infants and Children.
Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent, or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent, or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy and retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse. It causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"I have used your Castoria in cases of colic in children and have found it the best medicine of its kind on the market."
J. E. SIMPSON, M. D., Chicago, Ill.

"Castoria is good for children and I frequently prescribe it, and always obtain the desired result."
F. GERALD BLATTNER, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.

"A medicine so valuable and beneficial for children as your Castoria is deserves the highest praise. I find it in use everywhere."
J. S. ALBERTSON, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"I have prescribed Castoria to families for several years. It is all right. Mothers like it, for children will take it without any trouble."
C. A. WILSON, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.

"Have used your Castoria on various occasions in suitable cases and have found it a palatable and efficient laxative, especially in the various diseases of childhood."
CHAS. EDWARD GARDINER, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Your Castoria is a specific for children, known the world over. I use it in my practice and have no hesitancy in recommending it for the complaints of infants and children."
J. A. BOARMAN, M. D., Kansas City, Mo.

U.S. Rubber Buyers To Survey Markets

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 13.—The New York correspondent of the times states that the Rubber Association of America has named a committee of seven, under the chairmanship of Mr. Hotchkiss, to co-operate with the Department of Commerce in making a world survey of crude rubber.

The Directors have unanimously approved the recommendations made to the British Committee which lately visited the United States, asking for the abolition of the Stevenson plan and immediate consideration by the Stevenson Committee of the request to release rubber regardless of quarterly periods or prices.

The Association has also decided to address any future protests to Britain through the United States Government.

Financial And Commercial News

Hongkong Shares

Messrs. Moxon and Taylor of Hongkong write as follows in their weekly share report dated Hongkong, March 9:

Last week being Race Week, our market was only opened on Monday and Tuesday, and we therefore did not issue any circular. This week, in resuming business, our market opened very active with buyers prevailing, and considerable business has been put through during the week.

The Shanghai market has eased off slightly, owing to tightness of money.

The rubber market continues steady.

The following are the principal alterations since the week before last:

Hongkong Banks:—Have firmed up and are in strong demand with few if any sellers.

Unions:—Have risen to a buying rate of $227.

Hongkong Lands:—Are wanted at $352.50.

Hongkong Fire and Canton Insurances:—Have risen to $450 and $500 respectively, without attracting sellers.

Hongkong Hotels:—Have firmed up and have come to business at $27.50 and $28 for Old.

Cements:—Have again been the medium of considerable business both for cash and forward, and close firm with buyers at $24.

Dairy Farms:—Have been done at $24, and close with buyers at $23.75.

Hongkong Wharves:—Have had a considerable rise, buyers offering $158.50 without attracting sellers.

Hongkong Docks:—Are firmer at the decline and are wanted at $169.

China Providents:—After coming to business at $23.50, are slightly easier with sales and sellers at $23.25.

Langkats Combined:—In sympathy with the tightness of money in Shanghai, have declined to Tls. 22.50.

China Sugars:—Have taken a big jump, closing with buyers at $206, and as we go to press, have declared a dividend for the past year of $10 per share.

Ten Thousand Dollars worth of Embroideries

To be sold at Cost!

The cutting down of stocks at The Jade Tree is beginning in earnest with the sale of embroideries. The entire second floor is taken up with these, comprising table runners, wall hangings, and other straight pieces. These are marked in plain figures, in some cases below cost.

There are also more than two hundred embroidered coats in every pattern worn by the Chinese in the last two hundred years.
